12703	2 PL6	1840 Original FREEHOLD PROPERTY Auction Particulars of Sale Notice posted bearing 1d. Black block of 4 multiple cancelled/tied to document by black maltese crosses, adjoining discernible NEWPORT PAGNELL MR 8 1841 CDS. An extraordinary intact Auction Sale notice addressed to the representative Solicitors William Andrews Esquire, Solicitor, Market Harbour printed and dated 3rd March 1841, mailed a week before auction. 1d. Black block of 4 letters G-B, G-C, H-B, H-C, more an intense black shade, well-defined, clear profile H-C, plate 6 multiple bearing defining guidelines H-C, G-C, plus G-B top line N.E. corner weak. Original fold crease runs below G-B, H-B, the multiple has likely been pressed as there is no sign of deeper creasing but rather of paper undulation. Astonishing good to large four margins bearing traces of adjoining impressions E. & S. the multiple we suspect just fractionally touched S.E. corner H-C although this may never be proven due to position of tying black maltese cross. Doubtless a number of these auction notices may have been mailed bearing similar blocks of plate 6 1d. Blacks, but we shall never know for this is surely unique, 'presenting' almost A4 format fitting within most large format stamp albums, but opening out to an extraordinary 4 x size, measuring some 14.5 inches wide (370mm.) x c.22.5 inches deep (465mm.) deep. We suspect that the properties so auctioned may even be identifiable/exist today. Document faults obviously but in extraordinary sound overall condition plus the valuable plate 6 1d. Black multiple catalogued £18,000 OFF piece ... which must surely command an at least 25%-50% catalogue value premium upon this unique auction notice which would add charisma to any classic collection. OK, let's get on with the story: 'Perfs' are a 'Faff' aren't they?! Whereas for some, the fortunate few – they're

We will mail/airmail your DPR card

obviously 'perfs aren't easy,' are they?

Some collectors and even battle-hardened dealers spend their entire working lives ignoring them, or simply making blind perf-suggestions! Time and again we see it written in collections – 'RARE PERF'... but 9 out of 10 x it simply isn't, is it?! It's a shame because we are missing out arguably upon one of the most under-explored areas in Philately today – an area which is unrecognised by many, ... potentially one of the most profitable philatelic areas for the few, until now ...

The point is that since perforation measurement was first identified and catalogued some 100+/- years ago – where only one perf variant is known, nobody has needed to easy. But for many, if not most, perforation is difficult to align and those 'dot-perforation-guides' can prove an investment in self-delusion. Unsurprisingly, as we all get older ... there are literally tens of, if not hundreds of thousands of collectors worldwide out there who deliberately choose to ignore perforation. It is nobody's fault perforations are prohibited for them because, check or query catalogue listed perforation for approaching 100 years. For example, let's take a common P.14. Many Perf 14 (that's 14 perforations across 2 centimetres) identified stamps are not really P.14. We've checked – they're somewhere perhaps between P.13.5 to P.14.2 ... BUT because no other variant is currently known to exist ... they are simply corralled, rounded up or down to P.14. Naturally, these are unlikely ever to become valuable because no other perforation is known to exist, or be listed for that stamp ... but you never know ...

However, where new DPR technology today scores, is in identifying the differences between 'official' stamp catalogue recognised rare perforation. This is where DPR technology may enable collectors without straining eyesight, without straining purse or wallet or burdening the environment. Of course, ultimately there's nothing to replace the experienced human eye ... but cost effective DPR perforation sorting may be a portent of the philatelic future ...
